Laurence: Juliet, calm yourself. I'm sure you can find a way to be with him again.

Juliet: That's the thing; my parents won't give me to a Montague. We should have never fallen in love in the first place, but the fates wanted it to happen. If I can't live with him I don't want to live at all.

Laurence: Juliet I know of a plan that might work, but it will be tricky, do you think you can handle it.

Juliet: That all depends on what it is, so please go on.

Laurence: Ok, so here's the plan. Tonight before your servants serve your dinner, slip into the kitchen and pour some of this sleeping potion in your mother and fathers tea. Then wait for three hours until they are completely asleep and slip out of the house. Come to my cell and I will have a horse and carriage waiting for you. By morning you and Romeo will be reunited again.

Juliet: Thank you Friar Laurence. Now I see why Romeo has made you his friend.

Voice: Juliet exits the scene and walks home. That night before dinner Juliet dose as the Friar told her and spikes her parent's tea. She waited three hours and snuck out of the house. We find her at Friar Laurence's cell waiting for him to take her to Romeo.

Juliet Friar Laurence I have done as you said and my parents have taken the potion.

Laurence: Your and Romeos happiness is payment enough. Now let's get going so you and Romeo can be together.

Juliet: Ok, I understand.
